The Transformative Edge™ is CMA's science-based coaching approach, developed through more than a decade of field practice and research. It provides a practical method for working with the thinking behind a person's response.

The Foundational Advantage is the entry into learning this approach. It equips you to work at the level where new understanding emerges, perspectives change, and choices become clearer. The training strengthens the way you engage in real conversations.

You learn to:

- Adopt a coaching mindset that supports reflective thinking, improving the quality of consideration and decision-making.
- Observe how a person is making sense of their situation and bring clarity to what is shaping their interpretation.
- Apply the Awareness–Clarity–Choice Conversation in everyday interactions, offering a practical method for guiding thinking in coaching and non-coaching contexts.

As the entry point in the professional pathway, the Foundational Advantage gives you a practical start for shaping conversations that support meaningful change. It positions you to build capability so your everyday interactions are more intentional and impactful.

> "Engaging in Deep and Focused Conversation
> Build the capacity to stimulate critical reflection, which helps people manage problem situations or issues and make better choices."

Inside the Learning Experience

Building your capacity to enable real change

Phase 1 Learning the Science of Change

It begins with the Learning Lab. Here, you see what makes coaching transformational: how people make sense of their situation, how thinking patterns shape what they say and do, and how everyday exchanges can become reflective dialogue that changes how they see what is happening. With our proprietary Awareness-Clarity-Choice Conversation, you gain a practical framework to help people reach a clearer, more constructive perspective on their situation.

In this phase, you learn to:

- Distinguish coaching from advising or mentoring and create the conditions for reflective thinking.
- Observe how thinking patterns steer a conversation and shape what feels possible.
- Hear beyond the surface story to the meaning behind a person's reactions, concerns, and aspirations.
- Engage people in reflective thinking so their responses are calmer and their decisions more intentional.

As you apply this, you notice difficult conversations becoming more constructive.

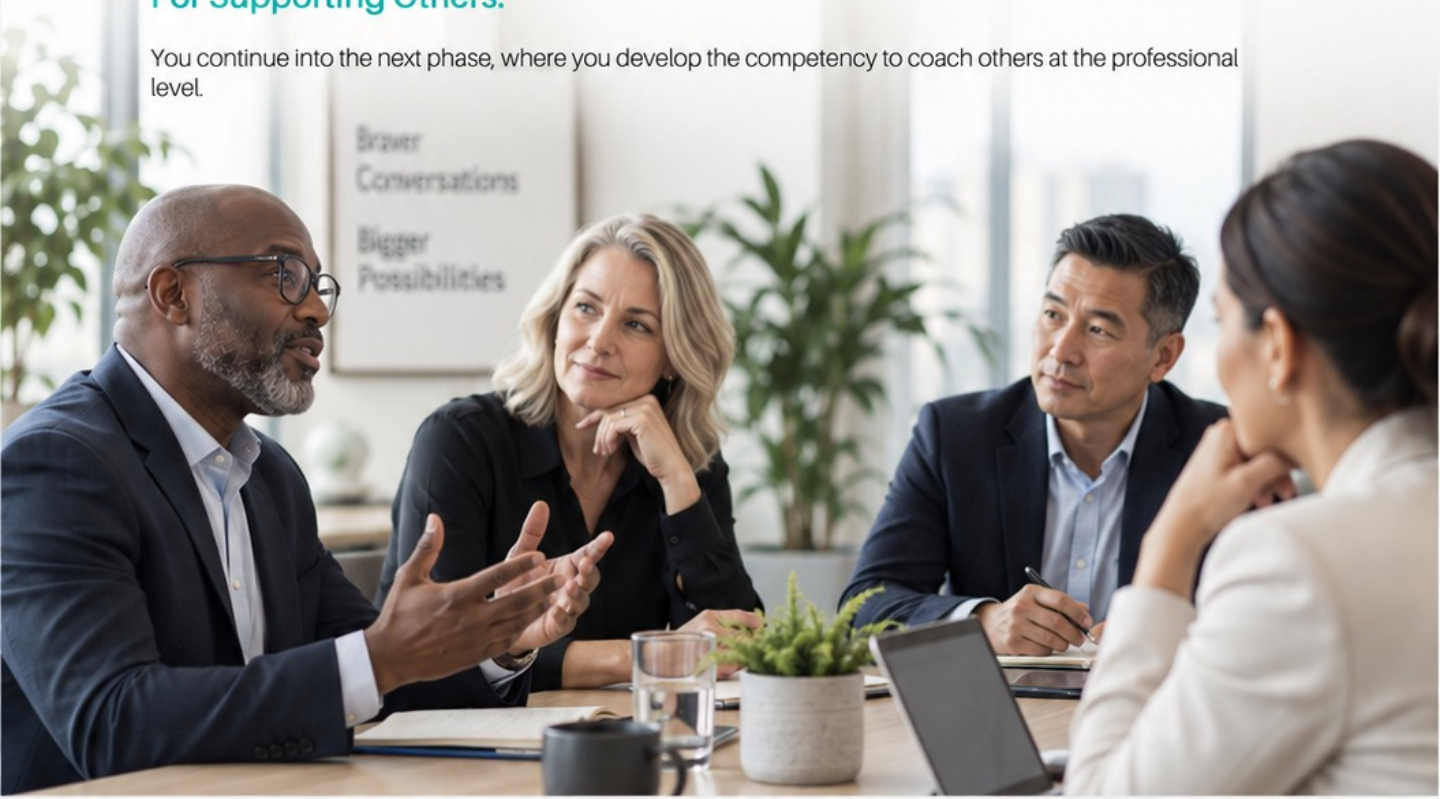

You choose how far to take this learning:

For Your Own Growth:

The Learning Lab stands as a complete experience. You understand how change works and gain a practical conversational framework you can rely on in complex, emotionally charged moments.

For Supporting Others:

You continue into the next phase, where you develop the competency to coach others at the professional level.

Phase 2 Practising for Real Impact

In the Practical, Mentoring, and Enrichment Labs, you work with real situations, receive expert guidance, and see the approach demonstrated at a high standard. This reflects our rigorous learning design, with focused practice, precise feedback, and clear demonstrations of mastery.

As you progress through these Labs, you will:

- Apply the framework in live conversations and see it bring focus, surface what matters, and support more thoughtful responses.
- Receive tailored feedback that highlights strengths, reveals blind spots, and shows you how to deepen your impact.
- Witness high-calibre coaching in action and gain a clear picture of the standard you are growing toward.

These Labs consolidate your capability to work at the level where people make sense of what is happening and decide what to do next. Together, they form the Foundational Advantage—the foundation of your professional pathway in coaching.

> "Understand how change really works and create reflective space that draws out insight and decisions people can stand behind."
